

World Group Meet Broken Up by Chinese

MOSCOW (AP)—A Communist Chinese delegate broke up the Red-sponsored World Congress of Women today in a sharp clash with Indian representatives over the Chinese-Indian border conflict. The meeting was suspended.

The Chinese delegate threw the congress into an uproar when she marched to the podium in the Kremlin Grand Congress Hall to reply to an Indian speech deploring the "violent conflict" between the two countries.

The chairman, Dr. Joan Carritt of England, refused to grant her the floor. As confusion mounted, the chairman adjourned the meeting.

Fired Worker Raps Both U.S., State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ulysses F. Coleman, former Employment Security Division Employee, said Tuesday he has not been contacted by federal officials who are investigating his dismissal from the state job.

Coleman was one of 10 ESD employees who testified in a case in which three ESD employees were found to have violated the federal Hatch Act by soliciting funds for the 1960 campaign of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security announced Saturday it was investigating the dismissal of Coleman.

A 30-day period given Coleman for appeal to the state Merit System Council from his dismissal was allowed to lapse Monday.

Coleman said he felt the appeal to the state agency would be fruitless.

John I. Hogue, supervisor of the council, said he didn't know why Coleman would feel that way.

Youth Killed in Freak Accident

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—A 6-year-old boy choked to death in a freak accident at his home near Jonesboro Tuesday night.

He was Billy Lee McGinnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith.

Coroner Billy J. Emerson said the boy was watching Smith siphon gasoline from his car to use in his tractor. When Smith left the siphon hose for a moment, the boy picked it up, sucked on it, and got gasoline in his stomach.

Emerson said he died from suffocation due to mucus in the lungs.

Other survivors include two brothers and two sisters.

Fulbright Asks More for the Depressed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., was among legislators from all sections of the nation who spoke up strongly Tuesday in favor of legislation to make an additional $455 million available for the depressed areas program.

The House defeated the administration bill 209 to 204 two weeks ago. Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., of West Memphis, Ark., voted against passage of the bill.

The speeches for the legislation came as the Senate opened debate on its version of the Area Redevelopment bill. A vote is scheduled today on the measure and administration lieutenants say they are confident of passage.

Democratic congressional leaders are hopeful the Senate bill will serve as a vehicle for the House to reverse itself.

Fulbright said Tuesday the program has created a renewed spirit of pride and initiative in Arkansas communities.

He noted that a combination loan and grant to help finance construction of a water system at Gassville to service a new shirt factory (The Mar-Bax Shirt Company) was the first under the present program.

It was announced Tuesday that Mar-Bax will operate a new plant for which Searcy County voters approved Tuesday $315,000 in bond issues to finance construction.

Fulbright said that ARA funds have properly been called "seed money," a concept which Congress yearly supports through the foreign aid program.

"If Congress recognizes the soundness of this approach in underdeveloped countries, it should not object to trying this technique in underprivileged areas in our country," he said.

Fulbright said the loan to Gassville had been singled out by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as an example of wastefulness.

"This is one of the finest local development projects ever assisted by the federal government," he added.

The senator said the $160,000 loan and grant made possible a new plant employing 700 workers, pumping an annual $2 million payroll into the economy of the area. He said the cost to the federal government would be repaid in additional federal taxes paid by the employees.

Fulbright said 10 ARA projects approved in Arkansas, involving a total of $2,284,517, have resulted in direct employment of 2,680 Arkansans and indirect employment of 4,020 others.

"There are people working together to advance ARA projects who have never worked together on anything," he said. "This has been a good program for both the people and the economy of Arkansas."

Recreation Day Termed Successful

Yesterday was recreation day at Fair park and a large number of local residents turned out during the afternoon and night for a program designed to appeal to the entire family.

Actually the crowds didn't start coming out until late but a large number turned out.

In the fly casting contest Wesley Huddleston took top honors and was awarded a casting rod from the Wright-McGill Co. Second place honors went to Bob Tolleson.

Dr. Lowell Harris gave evidence that he was an old hand at horseshoe pitching. He started right out winning and licked all comers.

Several hundred persons visited the unusual exhibit by the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission. And a diving exhibition attracted a large crowd at Municipal pool.

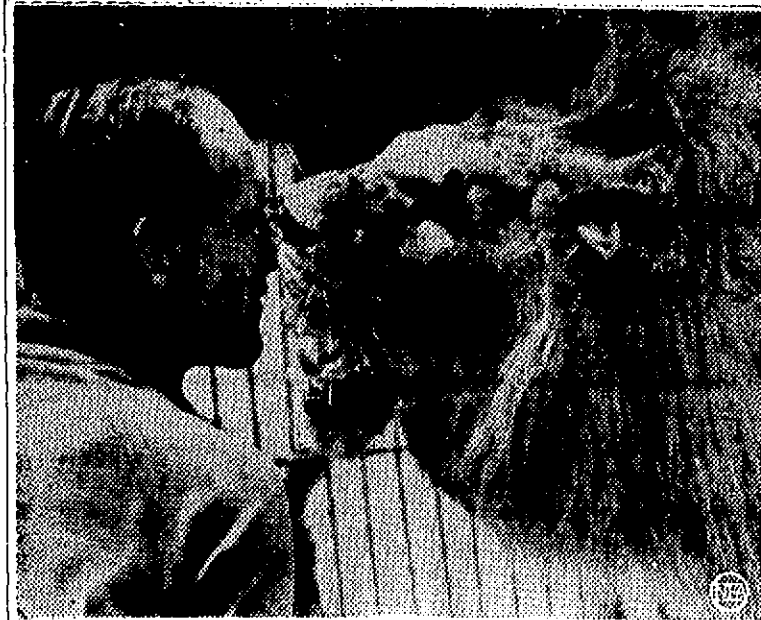

The baseball game was a dandy but the local American Legion Juniors lost a close one to the San Francisco team 3-2. The largest crowd of the year was on hand for the

Couple Completes 700 Mile Hike

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Mable McMillan, 56, and her son, Roger, walked into Paul's Switch near Jonesboro this weekend, completing a 49-day 700-mile hike from Crestview, Fla.

The family decided last year to move to Crestview, where Mrs. McMillan owns some property and near where another son is stationed at Elgin Air Force Base.

They packed a small cart, hitched their horse, Major, to it, and took off with a goat and dog trailing behind.

They made it to Butler, Ala., before a man driving a truck spotted them and drove them the remainder of the distance to Crestview.

May 5, the McMillans decided they didn't care for Florida and packed their belongings again — this time on the back of a Shetland pony named Rock.

"Nothing grows down there but jackbrush and palmetto," Mrs. McMillan said.

Hurst's Request Denied by Judge

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—U.S. District Judge John E. Miller has denied a request by state Sen. O. Byrum Hurst for a transcript of the testimony of Hurst's accountant before a U.S. Grand Jury.

The jury indicted Hurst for income tax evasion and trial is scheduled Aug. 5 in Hot Springs.

Judge Miller approved taking depositions from the accountant, Harold York of Little Rock.

He said he saw no need for release of the Grand Jury testimony since it could not be used against Hurst unless York is called as a witness by the defense at the trial. The judge said the testimony would be provided to Hurst's lawyers in that case.

Defense attorneys said York was ill at the time of the Grand Jury hearing and is ill now and probably will not be able to testify at the trial.

Hurst is charged with evading $21,000 in income taxes during the years 1956-59.

Searcy to Decide on Plant Bonds

478 Farmers Sign for Conservation

A total of 478 Hempstead county farmers volunteered to become partners with Uncle Sam last year in conservation work on their farms, according to Claude Self of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

"That's the number of farms that took part in the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP)," he said. "We don't know the number of practices actually completed yet."

Preliminary reports on the 1962 ACP show that 488 farmers in this county will receive $81,286 in federal cost-shares for conservation work on the farm. Much of this money has already been put into circulation in establishing conservation practices on the farm.

The ASC county committee processed 1225 purchase orders totaling $63,569.

"These payments are made to vendors—folks who sell trees, grass & legume seed, fertilizers & limestone or contractors who sell services like bulldozing, earth moving, ditching stock ponds, tearing & timber stand improvement. So, this money directly boosts our local economy."

Mr. Self also pointed out that the government share is only part of the total cost. The farmer also stands part of the cost, putting up cash, labor, materials or equipment.

"Next time you're out for a drive," Mr. Self suggested, "look around at some of the fine conservation work being done in our county. You're a partner in these projects. You benefit from additional income in the county and from the assurance that our county resources of soil, water and woodlands are being cared for and improved—which means plenty of good nutritious food and warm clothing are going to be available for us all."

Extradition Is Requested

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An extradition hearing for Albert J. Crawford of Newport, wanted by Tennessee authorities on warrants of arson and murder, was approved Tuesday by the governor's office.

John Browning, representative of the governor in extradition proceedings, said the hearing would be held at 11 a. m. Friday.

Crawford was placed in the State Hospital at Little Rock after he turned himself over to a Newport attorney recently. He had walked away from the Central State Hospital in Nashville, Tenn.

Crawford is charged with murder in the commission of arson in connection with a Memphis, Tenn., fire that took the life of Mildred Capps Hart Jan. 1, 1949. The arson charge stemmed from a fire in a rooming house at Memphis Jan. 23, 1957.

RFK Appeals for Rights Legislation

By JOSEPH A. MOHAWT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy appealed today to "the basic sense of justice in the hearts of all Americans" in urging Congress to approve President Kennedy's civil rights program.

"The courts have played an important role," he said. "This administration has taken significant and far-reaching action by the exercise of executive power."

"Now it is clearly up to Congress to bring its strength to bear."

Thus Kennedy challenged the Congress to recognize—by passing the civil rights bill—"that this country can no longer abide the moral outrage of racial discrimination."

The testimony of the President's brother before a House Judiciary subcommittee kicked off the administration's battle to propel the civil rights bill through the long, tough congressional mill.

His prepared testimony was first a further explanation of the bill but foremost a rebuttal to the criticism voiced by opponents when the President unveiled the program in a message to Congress last week.

The attorney general directed his strongest testimony to the section which promises to be the most controversial: the one prohibiting racial discrimination in any place of public accommodation—even privately owned ones.

"The effects of discrimination in public establishments are not limited to the embarrassment and frustration suffered by the individuals who are its most immediate victims," Kennedy said. "Our whole economy suffers. The nation's business is impaired."

Such facilities—restaurants, lunch counters, amusement places, stores, hotels and others—are public in a very real sense, he said.

"They are not at all like a private home or a private club, for example, to which the owner invites only the guests he selects. Plainly, places of public accommodation cater to the public."

Kennedy then addressed himself to the argument that the public accommodations law would violate private property rights.

"Some of those who complain most loudly about interference with private property rights," Kennedy said, "ironically are often those who most stoutly defend the laws, enforced by a number of states which forbid Negroes to be served."

"The difference is not one of property rights, but of the color of the customer's skin. That difference is called racial discrimination."

Arkansas Skies Generally Clear

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas skies were generally clear to partly cloudy today and mild temperatures were predicted through Thursday.

Overnight low temperatures reported around the state this morning ranged from the low 60s to the low 70s. No rain was reported.

The forecast called for widely scattered mostly afternoon and evening thundershowers today and Thursday, mostly in the south and west portions.

Highs of 86 to 92 were predicted for this afternoon and lows tonight were expected to range from 66 to 72.

Temperatures during the next five days were expected to average near normal with minor day to day changes. Normal highs range from 86 north to 94 south and normal lows from 66 north to 71 south.

Rainfall from showers forecast chiefly near the end of the week were expected to average one-quarter to three-quarters of an inch.

Belgian Plane Carrying 47 Explodes in Air

DETMOULD, Germany (AP)—A Belgian military plane carrying 42 paratroopers and a crew of 5 burst into flames in the air on a training exercise today, plunged into the ground and exploded.

Military officials reported 39 of the men perished and that 7 jumped to safety with parachutes.

The crash occurred shortly before noon on the troop training site at Sennelager.

Military reports said the plane was flying at an altitude of about 800 feet and the tail suddenly burst into flames. The wreckage burned two hours after the crash.

The paratroopers were being flown over the training area on a jumping exercise.

Masons Plan a Marker Dedication

The most worshipful Grand Lodge, free and accepted Masons of Arkansas, will commemorate the Civil War Centennial by dedicating a marker on the grounds of the old State Capitol at Washington, Hempstead County, Arkansas, on Thursday, July 4.

The dedication ceremony honoring the memory of those Masons who served their state and nation during the Civil War will be held during the afternoon beginning at 1 p. m. The grand master of Arkansas Masons, Quinn D. La Fargue, Jr. of DeWitt will preside.

After the Federal forces captured Little Rock the State Government moved to Washington. The Constitution of the Grand Lodge requires that its annual sessions be held at the seat of Government of Arkansas. This being the case the Grand Lodge held its meetings at Washington during the years 1963 and 1864 and in the same building as the State Government. It will be on the grounds of this building where the Masonic marker will be placed.

Pioneer Washington Foundation will serve boxed lunches to all who comes to Washington.

All the Historic places will be open for tours. The public, especially Masons, have a cordial invitation to spend the fourth in Washington.

Million Cheers as Kennedy Looks at Wall

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BERLIN (AP)—With the cheers of a million West Berliners ringing in his ears, President Kennedy strode up to the Red wall of Berlin today and gazed into the Communist world.

A crowd of several hundred East Berliners, standing behind Communist police who held Tommyguns, waved handkerchiefs at him.

West Berliners filled the air with confetti and cheers.

The President arrived at the Brandenburg Gate—the symbol of the division of Berlin between East and West—at 11:45 a. m.

He mounted a platform and looked at the concrete and barbed wire wall stretching in front of him, to the left and to the right, and at the massive gate before him.

He stayed four minutes and then headed for another point on the wall—Checkpoint Charlie, the U.S.-manned crossing point for foreigners where Soviet and American tanks faced muzzle to muzzle less than two years ago.

The President reached the Brandenburg Gate after the greatest spontaneous welcome in the memory of the former German capital. Old timers said not even Hitler with his famous parade had brought out the people the way the American President did.

The screaming, cheering, flag-waving, confetti-tossing welcome exceeded the mammoth reception West German crowds gave Kennedy earlier this week.

The President looked across into East Berlin from an 18-foot observation platform about 15 feet from the wall. West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer stood at his side as a British officer showed the President a chart of the principal points in East Berlin.

Soviet guards came over from their war memorial to take pictures. The memorial is in the British sector near the Brandenburg Gate.

Visitors to the Brandenburg Gate can peer through its three arches down Unter den Linden, the governmental center of East Berlin.

Tuesday night the East Berlin regime hung flags from the arches to curtain Kennedy's view into

Observation From New Hope Folks

The Rev. W. R. Burks, retired Methodist minister appearing as guest speaker before Hope Kiwanis Club Tuesday, had a lot of nice things to say about Hope, and its people.

Observations of a new comer was the total of his talk. He said the people of this area were blessed with rich land in which to grow fruit, truck crops, the largest watermelons in the world; a good area for cattle, poultry, beef, timber and other crops.

He praised the schools, churches, health program, hospitals, doctors, the police department as efficient and courteous, the city manager type of government, the recreational program with its parks for both white and colored; the youth center, nursing homes, and the city's well-lighted streets.

Suggestions for improvements were: "We need more paving, but that will come when the city adopts the new paving program that has been outlined in recent days."

Rev. Mr. Burks also said that a few downtown business houses could stand a face-lifting; we need to remodel and keep up the appearance of our homes; and we need a little more pride and interest to move in a progressive manner to keep pace with other wide-awake towns.

The program was arranged by Ben Owen, but the speaker was introduced by Dr. Sam Strong. Guests included: Ray A. Brock, Sgt. John R. Stover, James H. Pilkinton and Sammy Strong, Jr.

the East. The flags ostensibly were raised in celebration of the visit Friday to East Berlin of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

As the President's motorcade drove on to Checkpoint Charlie, an elderly woman broke from the throng and ran into the street with a child in her arms carrying a bunch of carnations. A policeman started to guide the pair away but the President stopped the car, took the flowers and spoke with the woman.

Hundreds of East Berliners, standing about 500 yards away behind the guns of East German guards, watched the President's arrival at Checkpoint Charlie. From the West Berlin side people threw confetti and streamers from balconies.

Windows of East Berlin buildings immediately around the checkpoint were empty, but as the President's motorcade drove away some women in windows farther to the East waved handkerchiefs.

Kennedy stayed 12 minutes at the checkpoint.

The President, landing after a 110-mile flight over Communist East Germany, saluted West Berlin's two million people for holding aloft the beacon of freedom for the Western world.

Kennedy's Air Force jet landed from Wiesbaden, West Germany, six minutes ahead of schedule. Although Soviet MIG fighter planes were reported in the vicinity of the central air corridor used by the President, they did not bother his jet.

Greeting Brandt on his arrival, Kennedy said the "Legendary morale and spirit of the people of West Berlin have been a beacon for the free world."

Kennedy was accompanied by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor of West Germany in 1948 at the time of the Berlin airlift and the President's special representative in the city during recent times of tension.

Kennedy said he was particularly proud to be accompanied by Clay, "an old veteran of this frontier who in good times and bad has been identified with the life of this city."

Kennedy also said he was glad to be in Berlin in the company of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and to have another chance to discuss affairs with Mayor Brandt. His diplomatic reference to both officials covered over a pre-visit tug-of-war over who would have the honor of accompanying the President on his trip to Berlin.

Brandt welcomed the President as "the leading man of the Western world" and said, "Our hope rests with your leadership in the struggle for progress and peace."

The mayor expressed West Berlin's gratitude for U.S. support and protection during hard years. He said Kennedy had proved "that the United States will not be blackmailed."

"Here in the divided capital of Germany," Brandt concluded, "after a painful detour an alliance for freedom has been started. And here, as everywhere else in Germany, we are at your side, Mr. President, when the alliance for peace is at stake."

JFK Stopped Short in the Rights Bill

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy stopped short — of asking Congress to give the attorney general all the authority some integrationist leaders want him to have.

But, if Congress granted all the President did ask, the attorney general would have far more muscle in civil rights cases.

Southern Democrats will fight this just as they will Kennedy's request for a law to make private business places stop discrimination against Negroes. Both are sore points.

It was in 1957 that Congress passed the first civil rights bill in this century after strenuous opposition by the South, particularly on this issue:

A provision in the bill that year to give the attorney general power to seek a court injunction against anyone depriving anyone of his civil rights in any field. That covered the whole show.

In the end the Southerners won and this provision was knocked out but they had to make a concession. They didn't win a full victory. The bill which passed Congress did strengthen the attorney general's hand in the voting field.

The 1957 law said he could seek injunctions when an individual was deprived of his voting rights.

Then in 1960 Congress passed a second civil rights bill. This added a bit to the attorney general's authority by giving him the right to demand voting records for 22 months back in federal elections.

And federal courts, in districts where the records were questioned, could compel voting officials to comply with the attorney general's demand.

All this could be considered progress but it was slow. And the results were not dazzling. Just last month Berl I. Bernhard, staff director of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, told Congress:

Since 1957 the attorney general's office had instituted 38 lawsuits in voting rights cases but a substantial number of Negroes were being denied the right to vote in about 100 counties in eight Southern states.

In his civil rights proposals last week Kennedy asked Congress to give the attorney general a much broader sphere of action by authorizing him to step in directly in two additional fields:

1. To seek a court injunction against a segregated public school which refused to admit a Negro child if the parent couldn't afford a legal fight or was afraid to start it.

Even this wouldn't be as simple, direct or fast as it sounds in trying to get a business place to stop discriminating against Negroes.

Under Kennedy's plan there would be room for a lot of delay before the attorney general went to court to put an end to the discrimination. The court action would be the last resort.

First the effort would have to be made—through talk and attempted persuasion—to get the proprietor of a business place to stop discriminating. If that failed, the attorney general would go to court.

There is one way, however, in which the attorney general could skip the talk and go directly to court for an injunction: if he felt any effort to get voluntary compliance was useless.

All of this has been an explanation of Kennedy's proposal as he laid it before Congress. But what Congress does with it, in view of Southern opposition, is something else.

SHORTY A 2-Minute Short Story

A COLLECTION OF GEMS
By GEORGE B. SCANLAN

It was to be one drink to celebrate the accident of a meeting on a busy downtown street. He remembered to order her a scotch old-fashioned. When he took out a cigarette she reached for his lighter and flipped it open and on with a familiar quick, masculine gesture. After lighting his, she took one for herself.

"You smoke now," he said.

"Just one of the many bad habits I was driven to after you deserted me," she replied.

"As I recall you were pretty deeply enmeshed in any number of bad habits by the time I met you."

"And you, you cur, managed to take advantage of just about every one of them. But it was love, love."

She became serious now and as he reached for her hand, he remembered that their conversations had often been full of laughter. They would, in a moment, swing from the lightness of comedy to the seriousness of death. He studied her huge-eyed red-haired beauty and liked the way she smiled in enjoyment of his stare.

"Do you know the time I remember clearest?" he asked.

"I'll surprise you, I think." Her answer came quickly. "The time we parted."

He was the one that was surprised.

"How," he asked, "could we have got to know each other so well in just five days that now, four years later, you're able to tell what's on my mind?"

"Have you forgotten, darling? Our thoughts were always alike."

After the waiter had delivered the drinks she asked, "Shall we talk about it?"

He took a slow drink—remembering—then nodded for her to go on.

"You came to my apartment at 10. Your train was to leave at 12:30. Those two hours were a concentration of our five days together. In a way, they were like a very nice little book an aunt gave me when I was still in high school called 'Shakespearean Gems.' It was a collection of a line or two from each play—a statement by Polonius, Juliet's whispered call, an age of man, a remark by Malvolio. It was a wonderful little book because it was made of only the very best."

"That evening we shared a touch of the very best of everything we had had together. The laughter was in your corny kidding and finally your last crack of 'Next!' as you walked out the door. The warmth was in what we didn't need to tell each other. The frankness was in what we did say. The tenderness was in just one fast kiss as you left. The respect was in that you didn't offer and I didn't expect an explanation for why you never considered asking me to take the place of the girl you were going to marry the next day. The love was in that we couldn't mention that."

"Do you regret our time?" he asked.

"On no darling. Never. It was beautiful. Everything about it was beautiful."

"But the ending—didn't you regret that it had to end?"

She didn't answer right away. He recognized from the way her eyebrows tilted to a half-frown that she was trying to think of a way to make him understand.

Finally she said "You know, darling, I thoroughly enjoyed that little book my aunt had given me and because of that I went out the next week and bought a complete set of Shakespeare's plays. I hate to admit it, but I found them terribly dull. Can you understand why?"

"I guess so." He finished his drink and suddenly he did understand. "You'd known the best, and the rest didn't measure up—it compared badly."

"We had known the best, darling," she said. "Where could we have gone from there?"

They walked out of the bar together. He hailed a cab and as he helped her in he asked, "Shall we see each other again?"

She patted his cheek and said, "I still have that little book, but you know what?"

Referendum Signatures Are Stolen

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Law enforcement officials said today they will question gambling operators in an attempt to find the men who stole almost 83,000 signatures in support of an anti-gambling referendum.

The signatures were stolen from the secretary of state's vault on the ground floor of the state capitol.

The well-planned theft apparently took place immediately after closing hours Friday and was not discovered until Monday evening.

The signatures, on 5,530 separate petitions were collected by former Tacoma Councilman Dr. Homer A. Humiston to put to a vote in the November, 1964, general election a law passed by the 1963 legislature.

The law legalized pin ball games, punch boards, card games and certain other activities where licensed by local authorities.

Although legalized, local-option gambling was the intent of the law it never went into effect, and the state attorney general said he considered it unconstitutional and would test it in the courts.

The Old State House is regarded as one of the finest examples in the Nation of Greek revival architecture.

Makes Excuses for Racial Trouble

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—"Some of the events during the latest race developments in the United States are horrible, but significant and unavoidable in the crisis period we are now going through," the U.S. ambassador to Finland has told a news conference at Rovaniemi, in the Polar circle.

"I want to stress President Kennedy's words: 'The colored people will win, not because of their color, but because of justice,'" he said.

Carl T. Rowan, a former assistant undersecretary of state and one of the highest ranking Negro diplomats, arrived in this country five weeks ago with his family.

The Rowans crossed the Polar circle Monday and were awarded traditional certificates for this. They also visited a Lapp family in a hut, looked at numerous reindeer herds and wrote their names in a guest-book.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Pink White of Mineral Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Garner of Willisville.

Afterwards the guests gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mouser for an hour of Fellowship.

Fat Men Tire of Hearing Such Remarks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that fat men get tired of hearing, "He's a fine figure of a man—in fact, several men."

"What made you so late for work, Roscoe? Get stuck in the subway turnstile again?"

"He doesn't need a knife and fork. Just put a shovel by his plate."

"Hi, Tubby, what's new?"

"They say everybody loves a fat man."

"They say nobody loves a fat man."

"In our last amateur theatrical, Roscoe started as the mob scene. He played it all by himself."

"Roscoe just dived into the swimming pool from the 11-foot board. Now how are we going to get the water back in?"

"My, I can eat anything I want. Nothing seems to stick to my bones."

"They'll have to unhinge the pearls gates if they're ever going to get him into heaven."

"Your shoelace is loose, Roscoe. Want me to tie it for you?"

"We've got to do something about him. That's the fourth swivel chair he's broken this month."

"Yes, sir, I know a size 50 coat fits you like a glove. But let's try this size 54 on you—I think you'll find it a bit more comfortable."

"Roscoe isn't really fat. He's just unbelievably plump."

"We'll have to wait at the top of the stairs for Roscoe. He always takes the freight elevator."

"As I see it, it's a mathematical problem. If his tummy gets any bigger, his arms will no longer be able to reach the table—and then he's bound to start losing weight."

"The last time Roscoe played Santa Claus, the reindeer mutilated."

"They say that inside every fat man there's a thin man trying to get out. In Roscoe's case, there must be three men."

"Rainy days are a big nuisance to him. He gets tired of having to carry two umbrellas."

"I hear he counts his calories on the office computer."

"There's one nice thing about having all that weight. When you're at the beach with Roscoe on a summer day, he throws more shade than the average elm tree."

"Here's a new game for you, kids. The first one to race five laps around Roscoe wins a quarter. On your marks! Get set! Go!"

Irish Take Over for Mr. Kennedy

HANAU, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Army says it's just a coincidence, but an almost all-Irish team was responsible for preparing President Kennedy's lunch with the troops today.

First there was Capt. John S. (for Sattler) Kennedy of Llanerch, Pa., supply officer for the enlisted men's mess that was host to the President. The captain is not related to the Boston Kennedys.

The officer who operates the mess is Lt. Michael J. McDermott of Chicago. His mess steward is Sgt. I.C. James C. Murphy, 31, of Raleigh, N.C. The food service supervisors M. Sgt. Richard F. Kelly, 41, of Rose City, Mich.

The exception to the Irish pattern is S. Sgt. Robert Lightfoot, 35, the mess sergeant. But he comes from Boston.

He Simply Wants to Help Others

WASHINGTON (AP)—A successful farmer who also has been a factory worker, builder, politician and father or step-father to 16 children, leaves Saturday to teach plumbing in Southeast Asia at $80 a month.

Why did Dell Johnson, 59, Bemus Point, N.Y., farmer, go to work for the International Voluntary Services, a non-governmental agency?

"I want to leave my tourist armchair and help these people along one more step to a better existence," said Johnson at George Washington University, where he is completing a 10-day orientation course.

"It's like paying the rent on my life."

After the death of his wife, with whom he raised 16 children, 11 of them adopted, Johnson sold his livestock and joined 40 other trainees preparing to leave for Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia and Algeria.

"I have no political motive," he said. "I just want to do what I can for the economic and social welfare of the population. If I like it out there, I'm prepared to stay."

Says Russia Ahead of U.S. in Atom Field

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller said today he believes the Soviet Union is ahead of the United States in the field of nuclear explosives and may be the first to develop an effective defense against missiles.

BRIDE FEARS THE DARK

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I recently married a traveling salesman—as nice a human being as a girl could find. We're deeply in love and would be very happy were it not for one thing—my fear of the dark and dread of being alone.

Yesterday my husband left on a month's tour of the West Coast. It was the first time we've been separated since our marriage.

When I implored him to either find an office job here in town or take me with him, he told me to grow up, that the honeymoon was over.

Because of this unfeeling remark and my dreadful fear of the dark I didn't sleep a wink last night. A thunder storm threatened. It was humid and oppressive with heat lightning playing eerily through the bedroom as I switched off the lights.

Lying there, stiff and tense, I suddenly heard a mysterious tap, tapping in the kitchen. Investigation proved it to be a dripping water faucet. No sooner had I tightened it and climbed back into bed than the living room floor began to creak as if someone were tip-toeing across it. Before I could muster up courage to investigate that, the thunder storm broke. Flash, crash, bang! Trembling with fright, I covered under the bed covers and all but smothered to death.

This morning I'm a complete wreck and ready to read the riot act to my husband. Trouble is he's built up a fine clientele, makes good money and likes the work. Should I or he be the sacrificial lamb? Don't say get a dog for that's out of the question. Scared-of-the-Dark.

Dear Scared: There is no need for either you or your husband to be sacrificial lambs. To force him to choose between you and his job is risky business. Either learn to live with your phobias or take to a psychiatrist's couch.

I would be in favor of acquiring a dog. Why should a dog be out of the question? It would seem the ideal answer to your problem for, in addition to being on 24-hour watch duty, dogs are wonderful companions. Had it not been for Christopher, the little Dachshund acquired so many years ago in France, I don't know how I should have survived the sad years following my first husband's death. If it is impossible to keep a dog, try a night light. A police whistle and jiu-jitsu lessons would give added confidence. Should all these remedies fail, your husband might consent to living in a hotel where, were he absent, the very thought of many others under the same roof would dispel your fears. And, by the way, what is fear but nothing or No Thing.

Dear Helen: My mother said to ask you how old a girl should be before she wears high heels, puts on make-up or starts looking at boys. Mom said, I could date when I was 15 so you see how young I am now. Right now I feel everybody has turned against me. Is that natural? —Disconsolate

Dear Disconsolate: Generally

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Searcy County Approves Bonds

MARSHALL, Ark. (AP)—Searcy County voters decided today on proposed $315,000 bond issues to finance a plant for the Flintrock Shirt Co. in Marshall.

The company would be operated by the owners of the Mar - Bax Shirt Co. in Gassville, 30 miles north of Marshall.

The Marshall plant would employ about 400 persons, mostly women.

The bond issues would include $185,000 under Act 9 of 1960 and $130,000 under Amendment 49. The Amendment 49 bonds would require a 5-mill tax.

If the bond issues are approved, the 40,000-square foot plant is expected to be in operation by next spring.

Group Named to Work Out Church Deal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Cumberland Presbyterian Church General Assembly appointed a seven-man committee Monday to work out plans for a merger with the church's Negro branch.

This committee will report at next year's assembly, to be held in June at Chattanooga, Tenn. The Second Cumberland Presbyterian Church, which has 30,000 Negro members in Southern states, proposed the merger at its recent assembly.

Named to study the proposal are the Rev. Hubert Morrow and Hinkley Smartt of McKenzie, Tenn.; the Rev. Franklin Chesnut of Russellville, Ark.; the Rev. Carl Ramsey and Dr. Eugene Warren of Memphis; the Rev. Paul Cook of Calico Rock, Ark., and the Rev. James Knight of Birmingham, Ala.

Assembly officials said the Cumberland Presbyterian Church now is the third largest Presbyterian body in the nation with churches in more than one-third of the nation's 50 states.

The Second Cumberland Presbyterian Church (Negro) has congregations in southeast and southwestern sections of the nation.

Waldron to Get Federal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Area Redevelopment Administration announced today grants and loans to Perry and Waldron, Ark.

Perry will get a $20,300 grant and a $44,500 loan for expansion of water facilities to serve an expanding sawmill operation.

Waldron will get a $615,000 grant and a $215,000 loan to help the city rehabilitate and extend its municipal water system to serve a poultry processing firm which is expanding operations.

Thinks Blast Not Racially Involved

CANTON, Miss. (AP)—A shotgun blast that wounded five Negroes on a city street apparently had "no racial overtones," authorities said today.

City Atty. Robert L. Goza said the two women and three men received superficial wounds from the blast of birdshot Monday night.

He said there were no clues to the assailant, who may have been in a passing car, and nothing to indicate a racial motive.

Hospital authorities said the five were to be kept for observation and would probably be released today.

Police chief Dan Thompson said the origin of the blast was undetermined.

Reports said the five were returning from a Negro voter registration meeting, but this was not confirmed.

Goza said Negroes had been conducting such meetings the past two weeks without incident.

Canton is 20 miles northeast of Jackson.

More GIs to Be Benefited by New Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee approved today a bill to give education and home loan benefits to veterans discharged since Jan. 31, 1955.

Known as the "Cold War GI Bill," the measure has been opposed both by the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations. The Veterans Administration has estimated its education costs could exceed $3 billion.

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., sponsor of the measure, told newsmen "this bill would do more for college education, and to raise our educational levels, than anything that could pass."

The bill passed the Senate in 1959 but died in the House. In the preceding Congress, it was cleared by the Labor Committee but was not called up for a vote in the Senate in the face of Kennedy administration opposition.

The bill would make available for veterans, serving since 1955, college and vocational education payments similar to those received by World War II and Korean War servicemen.

The Korean War benefits expired Jan. 31, 1955. The bill ap-

New Movies on Nuclear Age Perils

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ready to be scared? Three major movies about future perils of the nuclear age will be in the theaters within a year.

They are: "Fail-Safe," "Seven Days in May" and "Dr. Strangelove: Or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb."

All are based on noted novels. All are getting the push of stellar casting and realistic filming.

"Fail-Safe" and "Dr. Strangelove" are Columbia releases. That would seem curious, since they bear a seemingly identical theme: the frantic efforts of the heads of the United States and the Soviet Union to head off a nuclear war.

"Fail-Safe," from the best-seller by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, was planned as an independent film by a new company headed by Max Youngstein. It became a Columbia release, and was shot recently in New York with Sidney Lumet directing Henry Fonda, Dan O'Herlihy, Walter Matthau and others.

"Fail-Safe" is straight drama, based on an accidental triggering of nuclear war. The president (Fonda) then works feverishly from his bomb shelter to prevent the utter devastation of the earth.

In "Strangelove" the war is started by a psychotic Air Force general. But the film is apparently played for laughs.

"It is a nightmare comedy," says director Stanley Kubrick ("Lolita").

His laughmakers include Peter Sellers in multiple roles as president, etc., George C. Scott, Sterling Hayden and Keenan Wynn. The film is nearing completion at Shepperton Studios in England.

Fredric March has been elected president of "Seven Days in May," Paramount's entry in the nuclear-scare pix. Based on the Fletcher Knebel-Charles Bailey best-seller, it portrays an attempted takeover of the presidency by militarists in the 1970s.

Burt Lancaster is the powerful general, Kirk Douglas the Marine colonel who sniffs out the plot and Edmond O'Brien the Georgia senator who helps the president lick it. John Frankenheimer ("Manchurian Candidate") is directing.

The rules are dubbed final. But the business community is betting that they will prove to be far short of that. Changes will be sought. And either Congress or the IRS may revise them after seeing how the new scheme works.

Yachts Get Tax Man's Approval

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Wives and yachts and a night on the town have the slightly restrained approval of the tax man today. But such business entertainment expenses can't be "lavish and extravagant."

The Internal Revenue Service has yet to spell out just what will be dubbed lavish and extravagant.

What is lavish for one man can be just the way of life for another. And the modest buildup that will sell one customer might offend another as demeaning.

In any case business firms' bookkeepers will have a lot more work keeping records of all the goings-on for the tax collector to inspect if he chooses. Corporation tax lawyers are likely to be busier, too. And hotels, night club and resort owners, and waiters in general, will continue to be unhappy because of fears of losing business from free spenders and the bother of giving receipts. They are sure to try to change the rules if they can.

The IRS has issued its new rules on tax deductions for business expenses with an Aug. 1 deadline for the bookkeepers, but rules apply to tax returns for all 1963. Now all that businessmen have to do is to study and try to understand them.

Wives enter the picture both as convention companions and as hostesses at home. If they are bona fide spreaders of goodwill in furthering the company's business by entertaining customers and their wives, they are tax deductible. This applies to the cost of restaurant and night club entertaining and also to the cost of home dinners and parties.

The business aspect of yacht and hunting lodge maintenance and of country clubs dues is something the host will have to prove. The IRS says the fine line here between business and pleasure must be clearly established by the taxpayer.

The same goes for night club entertaining which the IRS feels often could be too distracting for real business transactions. It is particularly leary of the "expenditure for beverages served during the floor show."

But it is quite lenient about the ordinary business meal. Or as the new rules specify: "expenditures for meals and beverages served during the course of a breakfast, lunch or dinner meeting of the taxpayer and his business associates at a restaurant, hotel dining room, eating club or similar place not involving distracting influence."

proved today would cover the period to July 1, 1967, when the current draft law expires.

Spa Citizens Want Action on Pollution

MALVERN, Ark. (AP)—Angry

Hot Spring County residents circulated petitions today asking Gov. Orval E. Faubus to do something about alleged pollution of the Ouachita River between Rammel Dam and Arkadelphia.

The petitions also are addressed to the state Health Department and to Arkansas Power & Light Co., which is asked to allow more water through Rammel Dam to keep the stream flowing.

Sponsors of the petition said the move was inspired by a massive fish kill, discovered in the river near Malvern Sunday, and because Malvern's city water supply, which is taken from the river, has acquired an odor and is slightly discolored.

Three Malvern fishermen reported that they saw thousands of dead fish Sunday on an eight mile float trip down the river.

Jody Hill, a sportsman and civic leader, said more than 2,000 signatures already had been collected. He said the petitions probably would be forwarded to authorities this week.

Colts Simply Can't Get Those Runs

By JIM HACKELMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Pity Houston's wandering Colts. They can't find home away from home.
Home plate again was out of bounds for the runless wonders Tuesday night as they were zeroed, again, this time at Milwaukee 4-0 by Tony Cloninger.
In suffering their 10th successive loss and 14th in 15 games on their current road trip, the Colts were blanked for the sixth time in their last seven games. In that non-shutout, Houston broke loose for one run.
Since leaving Texas two weeks ago, the last-place Colts have totaled 11 runs—and six of those came in a doubleheader split at San Francisco. Eight times they've been shut out, five times they've scored one run.
At the opposite end of the NL ladder Tuesday night, the St. Louis Cardinals reclaimed first from San Francisco, capitalizing on errant Giant throws in the ninth inning for a 6-5 victory. The Los Angeles Dodgers edged into second by trimming Cincinnati 4-1 behind Sandy Koufax' fine pitching and key hits from Jim Gilliam.
Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 5-4 on Don Demeter's 10th inning homer and the Chicago Cubs clipped the New York Mets 4-1 with three runs in the seventh.
In the American League—the Chicago White Sox climbed to within nine percentage points of front-running New York with a 2-1 decision over the Yanks; Baltimore walloped Los Angeles 10-0; Minnesota nipped Detroit 1-0; Kansas City beat Washington 8-4; and Boston took Cleveland twice, 4-1 and 3-2.
Cloninger zipped by the Colts with a four-hitter and the Braves got off to a fast start against Ken Johnson. Lee Maye belted Johnson's first pitch of the evening for a 400-foot homer and Joe Torre singled across another run before the opening inning was over.
Milwaukee got two more in the seventh on a pair of doubles by Maye and Frank Bolling and Eddie Mathews' single.

In a first-inning outbreak capped by Ken Boyer's two-run homer, the Cards rushed into a 5-0 lead against the Giants but it eventually took an unearned run in the last of the ninth to win it. In between, San Francisco pulled even with a run in the sixth and four in the eighth, when Willie McCovey homered with one on and Felipe Alou tripled with two on.
In the decisive St. Louis ninth, Tim McCarver led off against Bob Bolin, the sixth Giant pitcher, with a single. Then Bolin made a bad throw to second after fielding Red Schoendienst's sacrifice bunt, and McCarver came the rest of the way when Orlando Cepeda pegged wildly to third after picking up Julian Javier's sacrifice.
Koufax mastered Jim O'Toole in a battle between two star left-handers—with old pro Gilliam supplying the vital punch. Gilliam, who doubled in the third and scored the first Dodger run, doubled home Maury Wills with the tie-breaker in the eighth and scored again on Tommy Davis' single. Ron Fairly homered in the ninth off O'Toole, who allowed 11 hits in losing his fourth against 13 victories.
Koufax, after a shaky start, finished with a six-hitter and run his record to 12-3. He struck out nine for a 129 total—high in the league; notched his 10th complete game—high in the league; and lowered his earned run average to 1.68—best among NL starters.
The Dodgers now trail St. Louis by one-half game and have an edge of two percentage points over the Giants. The Reds are in fourth, two games out.
Demeter hit the game-winning homer in the 10th for the Phils against Harvey Haddix, Pittsburgh's sixth pitcher. The Pirates had sent the match into overtime by scoring twice in the ninth on Bill Virdon's bases-loaded single before winner Johnny Klippstein slammed the door.
Pittsburgh punched out 18 hits—but also left 15 men stranded.
Larry Jackson turned in a four-hitter for the Cubs and now is 5-0 against the Mets over two seasons. Jay Hook stayed even with Jackson until the seventh, when the Cubs sent across three runs, breaking a 1-1 tie. Billy Williams singled in the go-ahead marker, then Ron Santo singled in two more.

Arkansas' Longest Win Streak Ends

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas' longest winning streak of the year—five games—came to an end Tuesday night as Buffalo eked out a 5-3 triumph in an International League game in Little Rock.
In other league games, Syracuse trounced Richmond 9-0, Rochester nipped Toronto 4-3, and the Columbus-Jacksonville and Indianapolis-Atlanta games were postponed because of rain.
Trailing 5-2, Danny Cater led with a home run in the bottom of the ninth inning and John Herrstein followed with a single. But, with one man out, relief pitcher Willard Hunter, a strong left-hander, struck out two straight batters to retire the side and cinch the victory.
Bobby Malkmus pushed Arkansas to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when he tripled and scored on an infield out.
Ray Schrieber singled home two runs in the second inning for Buffalo, then doubled in a run in the fourth and Larry Burright singled home a run in the same frame.

Pumpsie Green lashed a blistering liner over the right field wall in the sixth inning to wrap up scoring for the Bisons. It was in the next frame that Ray Apple, a right-hander, was lifted in favor of Hunter. Apple got the triumph, giving him a 2-1 record. Marcelino Lopez was tagged with the loss.
Arkansas' second run, which came in the seventh inning, was a product of singles by Richie Allen, Cal Emery and Herrstein. Hunter then got pinch hitter John Upham to ground out on the first pitch to him with the bases loaded.

Chicago Sox Very Close to Loop Leader

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
On a night when Juan Pizarro hurled the Chicago White Sox into a virtual tie for the American League lead, Robin Roberts wound up pitching Baltimore back into the standings.
For a few hours, the Orioles were missing.

Pizarro's five-hit pitching and a seventh inning tie-breaking homer by Floyd Robinson gave the White Sox a 2-1 victory over New York Tuesday night and edged the Chicagoans to within nine percentage points of the first-place Yankees.

In Baltimore, the standings showed the Yankees and White Sox at the top—in a nine-team league.
The slumping Orioles, losers of 20 of 27 games and locked in a war of words with the local papers, had been "inadvertently dropped" from the team listings in the editions that hit the streets before Baltimore's game at Los Angeles.

Roberts proved emphatically that the fifth-place Orioles can't be counted out, posting the 250th victory of his career with a superb four-hit, 10-0 triumph over the Angels in which Jim Gentile gave a loud answer to his Baltimore critics.
Fined recently for not hustling,

Gentile has been getting a rough going over from the boo birds. He gave Angel pitchers the same treatment, driving in six runs with a pair of doubles and his 14th homer.
In other AL action, Harmon Killebrew's homer gave Minnesota a 1-0 decision over Detroit behind Lee Stage's five-hit pitching. relief ace Dick Radatz preserved Boston's 4-1 and 3-2 victories over Cleveland and Kansas City whacked Washington 8-4.
St. Louis regained the National League lead by whipping San Francisco 6-5, the Los Angeles Dodgers downed Cincinnati 4-1, Chicago's Cubs defeated the New York Mets 4-1, Milwaukee shut out Houston 4-0, and Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 5-4 in 10 innings.

Stange, recalled from the minors only recently, won his second game without a loss when Killebrew hit homer No. 15, off Jim Bunning in the third inning. Bunning, 4-8, allowed only two hits but the Tigers were unable to do anything with Stange.

Radatz came on in the eighth inning with the Red Sox leading the opener 1-0 and preserved a ninth straight victory for Bill Manbouquette, 11-4, by getting out of a bases-loaded jam on just two pitches. The Red Sox had moved ahead to stay against Dick Donovan, 4-5, on third inning doubles by Ed Bressoud and Russ Nixon.

In the nightcap, Radatz won one for Earl Wilson, 7-6, again getting the call in the eighth after the Indians had scored two runs. Lu Clinton homered for Boston off Sam McDowell, 3-5, and Dick Stuart drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Shell engineer uses stethoscope to help detect hard-to-hear knock. Super Shell fights both knock and spark plug misfire to make your car work better.

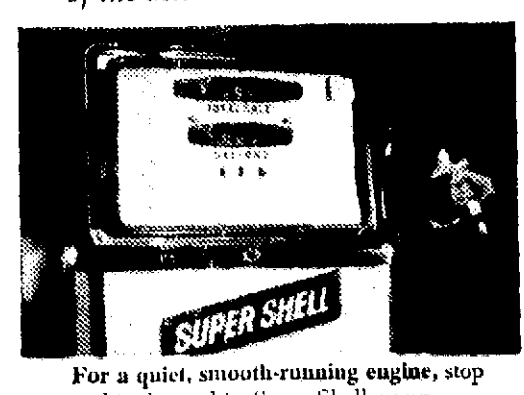

Want a smooth, quiet engine? Read how three of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients work together to help you get it SHELL scientists will tell you that a good gasoline should fight both engine knock and spark plug misfire to give you a quiet, smooth-running engine.

That's why the men who make Super Shell gasoline always include TCP, Anti-knock mix and Alkylate as three of its nine working ingredients.

TCP works to fight spark plug misfire
Spark plug misfire means exactly what it sounds like. The plug misses—doesn't fire properly. Instead of purring smoothly, your engine falters—loses power and wastes gasoline.

Combustion deposits are often to blame. When engine temperatures go up, these deposits can conduct electricity—actually short circuit your spark plugs and take them right out of the act.

For a quiet, smooth-running engine, stop at this clean white Super Shell pump.

Super Shell's TCP works by actually altering the chemical nature of these deposits. Your spark plugs fire the way they should—and you get a smooth-running engine.

Anti-knock mix and Alkylate work to fight two kinds of knock

1. Ordinary knock—the kind most people hear. It sounds sort of like metal tapping against metal.

Super Shell's Anti-knock mix is so powerful that just one teaspoonful per gallon can boost knock resistance dramatically—actually raise the octane rating by a full five numbers for a smooth, quiet engine.

2. High-speed knock—not as well known as ordinary knock. And often hard to hear, because it usually occurs at turnpike speeds.

But even though you may not always hear it, high-speed knock can pound away at pistons and lead to costly damage.

Shell scientists originally pioneered the development of Alkylate to help control knock in aircraft engines.

Today, Alkylate helps Super Shell gasoline give you a quiet, smooth-running engine at high speeds.

Super Shell has 9 working ingredients to make your car work better Smooth, quiet performance is just one of the benefits you get from Super Shell. And the ingredients you've read about are just three of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients. Here are the others—and what they do to help your car work better.

Platformate works to give extra mileage.

Cat-cracked gasoline works to give your engine smooth power.

Butane works for fast starts.

Pentane mix works to give you smooth warm-ups.

Gum preventive and anti-icer (added in cold weather) work to keep carburetors clean inside and to help check icing stalls.

Weather Factor in Wimbledon
By JOHN GALE
WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The United States delegation in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships is troubled more by British weather than the international opposition.

"This weather may not bother the British, but brother they can keep it," moaned Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif. ace who recently won the NCAA national championships.

His comment just about summed up the American players' feelings about the cold, windy conditions that has plagued the tourney since its start and has disrupted the schedule.

Rain stopped play twice in opening rounds and caused a late start Tuesday.

Ralston, one of five U.S. players who won opening day matches, was on the sideline Tuesday as Chuck McKinley of St. Louis led six more U.S. players into the second round.

McKinley, the only seeded American in the tourney, made occasional brilliant displays in a 6-3, 6-3, 8-6 victory over Cliff Drysdale of South Africa.

Other American victories: Charles Parsarell, Puerto Rico, defeated Franz Hainka, Austria, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5; Bob Siska, San Francisco, defeated Ion Tiriac, Romania, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5; Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va., defeated Carlos Fernandez, Brazil 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1; Frank Froehling, Coral Gables, Fla., defeated Donald Dell Bethesda, Md., 1-6, 8-6, 6-3, 6-3; and Tom Edelsten, Berkeley, Calif. defeated A. C. Kendall, Australia 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4.

The Americans ousted included Eugene Scott of New York and Cliff Buchholz of St. Louis.

In women's play, Mrs. Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia, beaten finalist last year, ousted Jane Albert of Peble Beach, Calif., daughter of former football All-America Frankie Albert, 6-4, 6-4.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach defeated Sonja Pakta of Austria 6-4, 6-4; Top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia won without trouble.

Pope Was a Tree Climber in Boyhood

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP Correspondent James M. Long covered the Vatican during the reign of the two predecessors of Pope Paul VI and has known the new pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church for more than a decade. This is the first of three biographical articles on Pope Paul.

By JAMES M. LONG

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The skinny little schoolboy who climbed trees faster than any youngster in his home town has ascended the throne of St. Peter.

There is reason to suppose that Giovanni Battista Montini—Pope Paul VI—reached the highest office of the Roman Catholic Church in much the same way he climbed to treetops—with his eyes on heaven and no fear in his heart.

Primo Savoldi, a boyhood friend, tells the story:

"Giovanni Battista was smaller than I was at 10, and he wasn't as strong. I never could figure out why he was so good at climbing trees. He always beat me to the top.

"It wasn't until 50 years later that I learned why. He was archbishop of Milan then, and he told me the secret: 'Look up to heaven when you climb, and fear nothing.'"

The Montini family had lived around the north Italian city of Brescia since the 15th century and had always been close to the Church. Members included Donna Ippolita, 16th century abbess of St. Giulia; one early bishop of Brescia, and at least seven priests between 1600 and 1900.

Pope Paul was born Sept. 22, 1897 in a two-story home set in a tree-shaded park at Concesio, five miles north of Brescia. It was only 35 miles southeast of Sotto il Monte, birthplace of Pope John XXIII.

Concesio and Sotto il Monte are much alike—nestled in Alpine foothill valleys under 3,000-foot mountains in rich vineyard and orchard lands. The people live simply, farm industriously and are devout.

The Pope's father was Giorgio Montini, a lawyer who for 25 years ran the Brescia Catholic newspaper Il Cittadino. Three times he was elected to Parliament under the monarchy. In 1924, two years after Benito Mussolini led Italy into fascism, he quit politics.

The future Pope was christened with a weighty name, like most Italian children. He was Giovanni Battista (John the Baptist) Enrico Antonio Maria Montini.

His mother, Giuditta Montini, once called him lovingly "L'Anacleto" called him lovingly "L'Anacleto" of the family.

The family's housekeeper, Anna Mariannini, remembers him a little differently.

"He was not a saint, I tell you."

But she says: "I do not remember that his parents ever had to reprimand him for anything improper—anything that any child might not easily do. He was as vivacious as any boy his age."

A few months after Giovanni Battista's birth, Giorgio Montini moved his family to a home in downtown Brescia. It was more convenient for his work. Giovanni Battista and his two brothers grew up there.

His brothers are Lodovico Montini, 66, who served three terms as a Christian Democrat member of the Chamber of Deputies and who was elected last April 28 to the Italian Senate, and Dr. Francesco Montini, 62, a Brescia physician.

Just as Pope John once said he almost decided to become a journalist in his youth, so Pope Paul had leanings toward the press. He founded a high school paper. Later he became a regular contributor to religious publications.

His early education was in the Jesuit-directed Arel Institute in Brescia. But Pope Paul was a sickly boy, so thin and frail his parents feared to keep him in high school. He completed these studies under private teachers.

It was during this period that he told his parents he had decided to enter the priesthood. Some school chums had known of his decision years earlier.

The Pope entered the Brescia diocesan seminary in 1916. Again, as in high school, he had to drop out. He studied privately, under institute teachers and with the aid of a priest. He showed both enthusiasm and talent. Sometimes he even wrote trial sermons for the priest.

Although he had been in actual attendance at the seminary for only six months in three years, the young man passed his examinations in 1919. He was ordained in the Brescia Cathedral on May 29, 1920. That same year the bishop of Brescia sent him to Rome's Gregorian University, a school for young priests of special promise.

He still was frail, but his health was steeper. He plunged into studies of philosophy, literature and canon law. His dedication brought him to the attention of the Vatican Secretariat of State.

In 1923, even before his advanced studies were completed, the Vatican sent him on his first diplomatic mission. He went to Warsaw as secretary to the apostolic nuncio.

He was only 25, but the Church had launched him on the road that was to teach him a Slavic language, give him his first view of what is now a Communist land, start his brilliant 30-year career as a Vatican diplomat, and take him to the papal throne.

Civil War Shells Found in Books

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—Two Civil War shells lay among the books for years, fused and ready. Civil War buff Manuel Sempeles discovered a 5-inch navy shell in the basement of Handley Library and a smaller shell upstairs in a storage room.

Librarian David Roland remembered how the shells had been tossed around during a recent cleaning and a changeover.

Two Ft. Belvoir Army specialists came Tuesday, defused the shells and carted them off.

Roland made a quick check of the library—no more shells; only books.
